

ABOUT KRASIMIRA

Hey there, I'm Krasimira Ilieva, a travel writer and content creator behind coconutstories.net. I am truly passionate about exploring the world and capturing its beauty through words and visuals. With a strong background in the arts, I graduated from the esteemed National Academy of Arts in Sofia, Bulgaria, and had the incredible opportunity to further enrich my artistic education by studying Fine Arts at the University of Castilla la Mancha in Spain. These experiences have shaped my unique perspective and artistic sensibilities, which I bring to life through my travel blogging and storytelling. In addition to my love for travel, I am also the proud owner of a thriving agency specializing in graphic design and photography.

As a creative entrepreneur, I find joy and fulfillment in seamlessly merging my passions. Whether I'm immersing myself in new cultures, crafting compelling stories, or designing visually captivating content, each endeavor fuels my desire to inspire wanderlust in others.

ABOUT ANTOAN

Hi there! I'm Antoan Zahariev, a passionate Wildlife & Travel Photographer and travel blogger at coconutstories.net. With my camera in hand and a love for exploring the world's hidden gems, I capture breathtaking moments and showcase the beauty of nature through my lens. I'm also a certified Scuba Diver, indulging in the wonders of the underwater world. Additionally, I find joy in being a freediver and snowboarder, constantly seeking adrenaline-fueled adventures.

I graduated as a Statistical Sciences at Sofia University. Balancing my passion for travel blogging with my main job as a Bank Employee, I am fortunate to combine my professional expertise with my wanderlust.